M.Phil. in Ecumenical Studies (Dublin)

Email: ecumsec@tcd.ie

From a perspective informed by Christian theology, this programme focuses on three traditions of dialogue that together constitute the field of Ecumenics: inter-Christian dialogue, interreligious theology and praxis towards global peace and justice.

CURRENT COURSES INCLUDE:

- ▶ World Christianity and Interreligious Dialogue
- ▶ Judaism and Jewish-Christian Relations
- ▶ Ethical Globalisation: The Religions in Global Civil Society
- ▶ Islam and Muslim-Christian Relations
- ▶ Christian Ethics Between the Local and the Global: Ethics, Theology & Social Theory
- ▶ Issues in Buddhist-Christian Dialogue
- ▶ Identity, Truth & Power: Interpreting Ecumenical Ecclesiology
- ▶ Conflict and the Politics of Peace in Ireland (plus optional field study visit to Belfast)
- ▶ Authority, Tradition, Experience: Exploring the Ecology of Oikoumene

A service-learning component is available to students who wish to deepen the experiential concerns of this programme.

- ▶ Study full-time for 12 months or part-time for 24 months
- ▶ One term sabbaticals available
- ▶ A Careers Open Day to assist students with their future career options will be arranged
- ▶ Courses in International Peace Studies and in Reconciliation Studies are open to Ecumenical Studies students.
